ATLANTA WOMAN CHARGED WITH INSURANCE FRAUD, FORGERY AFTER ALTERING POSITIVE COVID TEST DATE

ATLANTA – Insurance and Safety Fire Commissioner John F. King announced today that Takeidra Davis, 37, of Atlanta, has been charged with insurance fraud and forgery after attempting to defraud a travel insurance company.

“Ms. Davis and her family purchased travel insurance for a vacation they planned to begin on January 6th, 2022,” said Commissioner King. “In the policy, it clearly states that a dependent must be sick at the time of the trip in order to receive a refund. When Ms. Davis’ son recovered and tested negative for COVID-19 the day before their vacation, the suspect altered her son’s medical record to indicate a positive test result during the policy period.”

Warrants were taken out against Ms. Davis on July 6th, 2023. She remains wanted at this time.
